THE ORIGINAL TARANTINI PANZAROTTI™ CORPORATION LOOKS FOR DISTRIBUTORS NATIONWIDE

CHERRY HILL, SEPTEMBER 1, 2010 - Distributors Wanted. That is the call that is coming from The Original Tarantini Panzarotti™ Company. Ever since the release of Food Network's "The Best Thing I Ever Ate" show, people all over the country are asking where can I get a Panzarotti? Some are New Jersey natives that have moved and others are completely new to The Original Tarantini Panzarotti™. So The Original Tarantini Panzarotti™ Company is taking applications for Distributors from around the country. Interested parties can go online at www.panzarotti.net and fill out the Distributor application.

Other new products are in development and will be released over the next year.

ABOUT THE ORIGINAL TARANTINI PANZAROTTI™ CORPORATION

From a working immigrant mother in the 1960s to a wide-spread following and large distribution line, Tarantini is the family that started it all.

The Original Tarantini Panzarotti™ first came to America with Pauline Tarantini. Mrs. Tarantini began frying her panzarottis by hand from her Camden, New Jersey home, after which her husband, Leopold, peddled them at gas stations and other local establishments. By 1963, her panzarotti was becoming so popular by just word-of-mouth that the Tarantini's purchased a store a few doors from their home. Now, almost 50 years after Mrs. Tarantini took out her frying pan and captured a hungry audience, the Tarantini family carries on the tradition.
